Kingdom of the Doll Regime

If we look at the most ancient texts, from the classical Greek philosophers or the Eastern sages, we find that contemporaries of all times consider generations after their own to be much worse: careless, ill-mannered, lazy, lacking in values and definitely corrupt and clumsy. This has always been proven to be untrue, a fallacy, a false sense of the inevitable deterioration of society, probably motivated by a lack of global perspective and a flawed distrust of the future.

As I say, this has been proven to be absolutely false to this day, in which this deterioration is finally happening, and we are witnessing a fact that is clear, true, tested and proven beyond a shadow of a doubt.
